

How To Play Lawn Bowls

How To Play Lawn Bowls

Downloaded from app.ardentx.com by Daisy & Kenny

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE GENTLE ART OF LAWN BOWLS

Lawn bowls is a sport of precision, strategy, and quiet camaraderie, played on a manicured grass or synthetic surface known as a green. Often described as a combination of shuffleboard and chess on grass, it challenges players to roll biased balls (bowls) as close as possible to a smaller white target ball (the jack). Whether you are a complete beginner drawn by its social nature or a seasoned athlete looking for a low-impact competitive outlet, understanding how to play lawn bowls is the first step toward enjoying this timeless pastime. The game can be played as singles, pairs, triples, or fours, with each format offering its own tactical nuances. In this guide, we will walk through the fundamental rules, equipment, techniques, and etiquette that define the sport, helping you step onto the green with confidence.

THE PLAYING AREA AND ESSENTIAL EQUIPMENT

The Green

A lawn bowls green is a square or rectangular area, typically between 31 and 40 meters long, surrounded by a shallow ditch. The surface is divided into parallel strips called rinks, each about 4.5 to 5.5 meters wide. A rink is your playing lane for a match. The speed of the green—how quickly the bowl travels—varies with grass type, moisture, and rolling condition, and it significantly affects how to play lawn bowls effectively.

The Bowls (Biased Balls)

Each bowl is not perfectly spherical; it has a bias, meaning one side is flatter than the other. This causes the bowl to curve along a parabolic path as it slows down. Bowls come in different sizes (sizes 00 to 7, with 7 being largest) and weights, often designated by a number on the side. Players typically use a set of four bowls in singles or pairs, and two or three bowls in team games. The bias direction is marked by a small symbol on the bowl; you must always deliver the bowl with the bias side facing the intended curve direction. Understanding bias is central to mastering the game.

The Jack

The jack is a small white or yellow ball about the size of a golf ball. It serves as the target. At the start of an end (a round of play), the first player rolls the jack to the other end of the rink. The jack must travel at least 23 meters and remain within the rink boundaries to be valid. Throughout the end, the jack may be moved by bowls that hit it, adding an element of unpredictability.

Footwear and Attire

Flat-soled shoes are required to avoid damaging the green. Most clubs require white or cream trousers/shorts and a collared shirt. Proper attire is part of the sport's tradition and respect for the facility.

THE OBJECTIVE AND BASIC SCORING

The goal of each end is to get one or more of your bowls closer to the jack than any opponent's bowl. Once all bowls are delivered, the distance from the jack is measured. Only the bowls of the player/team that has the nearest bowl score points; each bowl closer to the jack than the opponent's best bowl counts as one point. For example, if your team has the two nearest bowls, you score two points for that end. The match continues for a predetermined number of ends (often 18 or 21 in singles) or time limit, and the player/team with the highest total score wins. This simple scoring system underpins all strategic decisions in how to play lawn bowls.

GRIPPING AND DELIVERING THE BOWL

The Grip

Hold the bowl comfortably in your dominant hand, with the bias symbol facing upward (or downward, depending on your delivery style). The bowl should rest in your palm, with your thumb on top or to the side for stability. Do not grip too tightly; a relaxed hold allows a smoother release. Many beginners find a “claw” grip—fingers spread around the running surface—effective. Experiment to find what feels natural, but keep the wrist firm.

The Stance and Delivery

Stand on the mat, a rubber mat placed on the green at the start of each end. Place your feet shoulder-width apart, knees slightly bent. Lean forward gently. The delivery motion involves a smooth pendulum swing of your bowling arm, stepping forward with the opposite foot. Keep your eyes on the jack (or your intended aiming point) throughout. Release the bowl near your front foot, allowing it to roll off your palm with a gentle forward spin. The key is rhythm and consistency, not power.

Understanding the Curve (The Bias)

Because the bowl is biased, you must aim to one side of the jack. The bowl will curve toward the center as it loses speed. The line of delivery depends on the green's speed. On a slow green, aim wider; on a fast green, aim closer to the jack. Mastering this judgment is the heart of developing skill in how to play lawn bowls. Practice different lengths (short, medium, long) to feel how the bowl behaves.

RULES OF PLAY FOR A TYPICAL END

Starting an End

Each end begins with the player whose name appears first on the scorecard (or the winner of the previous end) rolling the jack. The jack must cross the required distance line and stay within the rink. If it fails, the opposing team rolls it. Once the jack is placed, the first bowler delivers the first bowl. Then players alternate until all bowls are delivered (usually four per player in singles).

The Toucher Rule

A bowl that touches the jack during its initial delivery is called a “toucher.” It is marked with a chalk or a sticker. Touchers remain live even if they run into the ditch. They can also be repositioned if moved by another bowl. The toucher rule adds excitement—a bowl that seems headed into the ditch might still score if it first kissed the jack.

Dead Ends and Reformations

If the jack is knocked into the ditch (other than by a toucher), or if it leaves the rink entirely, the end is declared “dead.” No points are scored, and the same player rolls the jack again. If the jack is moved but remains within the rink, play continues. If the jack is knocked off the rink by a bowl that was delivered from beyond the mat, it is also dead. These rules require players to think carefully about shot selection.

Measurement and Disputes

When all bowls are delivered and it is unclear which is closest, a measure—a special tape or caliper—is used. Only the official measurer (often the skip) touches the bowls. Players should not move their bowls until the result is declared. Respect for measurement is essential in the sport's etiquette.

TYPES OF SHOTS AND TACTICS

The Draw Shot

The draw is the most fundamental shot in how to play lawn bowls. You aim to gently land your bowl as close to the jack as possible, using the bias to curve onto the target line. This shot requires finesse and a consistent weight. Draw shots are used to build a head (the cluster of bowls around the jack) and to out-position your opponent.

The Drive Shot (Fire)

A drive is a powerful, fast delivery aimed at knocking the jack or opponent's bowls out of position. It is a high-risk, high-reward shot, often used to break up a head when you are behind. Driving requires careful aim; if you miss, your bowl may end up far from the jack or in the ditch. Only attempt drives when the risk is justified.

The Yard-On (Weight Shot)

A yard-on shot is intermediate between a draw and a drive. You deliver the bowl with medium weight, intending to move the jack a short distance or to push an opponent’s bowl away while still keeping your bowl in the head. This is a valuable tactical tool for controlling the end’s outcome without the all-or-nothing nature of a drive.

Blocking and Guarding

Sometimes the best play is not to aim at the jack but to place your bowl in front of it, creating a guard that makes it difficult for your opponent to draw to the jack. Blocking shots are particularly important in team games, where one player (the lead) sets up a position for the skip to draw. Learning where to place guards and when to play them is a mark of advanced strategy in how to play lawn bowls.

ETIQUETTE AND SPORTSMANSHIP

- Stay still and quiet while a player is delivering a bowl. Movement or noise can distract.
- Do not walk on the rink during an end. Walk around the edge or behind the mat.
- Respect the green by not dragging your feet, using only flat-soled shoes, and replacing any divots.
- Praise good shots from both sides. The sport values grace and mutual respect.
- Wait for your turn and do not step onto the mat until the previous bowl has come to rest and the result is clear.
- Help with markers and measuring if needed, but never dispute a measure without proper procedure.

BASIC STRATEGY TIPS FOR BEGINNERS

1. Practice consistent weight. The most common mistake is delivering bowls with varying speed. Work on repeating the same arm swing and follow-through.
2. Watch your opponent’s bowls. Observe the line they take and the way the bias works on that particular green. Adjust your own aiming point accordingly.
3. Play the percentages. Early in the end, try to get a bowl near the jack. If you already have the shot, consider a guard rather than risking a drive.
4. Keep your bowl on the rink. Bowls that roll off into the ditch (unless touchers) are dead and useless. Aim for a path that stays within the rink boundaries, allowing some room for error.
5. Stay calm under pressure. Lawn bowls can be as much a mental game as a physical one. Breathe, focus on your routine, and trust your practice.
6. Learn from each end. After each end, take a moment to think about what worked and what didn’t. Adjust your line and weight for the next end.

CONCLUSION

How to play lawn bowls is a rewarding skill to learn, blending technical precision with thoughtful strategy and social enjoyment. From understanding the biased bowl and the green to mastering the draw shot and reading the head, each element contributes to a rich and engaging experience. The rules are straightforward but offer depth for a lifetime of play. Whether you join a local club or play casually in your backyard, the sport welcomes all ages and abilities. Take your time, practice consistently, and above all, enjoy the gentle rhythm of the green. As you progress, you will find that lawn bowls is not just a game—it is a pursuit of perfect harmony between mind, body, and the ever-rolling bowl.